AWR-232—Mass Fatalities Planning and Response for Rural Communities Training

June 20, 2016 • 8am to 5pm
Derby Welcome Center • 611 Mulberry, Suite 200, Derby, KS

This awareness-level course is designed to provide local and county law enforcement agencies, public health managers and planners, local regional emergency management agencies, emergency medical services, hospitals, paid or volunteer emergency planners and managers, and personnel in local and/or county emergency operations centers in rural communities with basic knowledge should mass fatality incidents impact their jurisdiction. This course serves as a training tool to provide rural communities with information to manage an actual mass-fatality response and to assist in the development of a mass-fatality response plan for their jurisdiction. The process of recovery, identification, and disposition of human remains following a mass fatality event will differ from the "normal" daily operations to which local authorities are accustomed. Understanding and appreciating these differences and the dynamics of a mass fatality will enable the rural communities to respond in an efficient manner and provide the assistance and guidance needed by the affected community.

Target Audience

Local and county law enforcement agencies • Public health managers and planners • Local regional emergency management agencies • Emergency Medical Services • Hospitals • Paid or volunteer emergency planners and managers • Personnel in local and/or county emergency operations centers
